Services provided

Market studies – In-depth assessment of markets, providing detail on aspects such as structure, supply/demand, outlook, key participants, infrastructure and regulation.

Strategic planning – Supporting organisations with the definition of their market strategies. Helping them to assess options for entry, exit, further investment or changes in focus.

Supply, demand and pricing analysis – Analysis of market fundamentals and/or pricing, to help clients evaluate how and where they might operate or to assess the positions of their competitors.

Market supply strategy – Assessment of the ability to supply commodities to or obtain supplies from a market and the costs of doing so. Assessment of transportation and freight costs.

Policy and regulation – Review of regulation affecting the market and assessment of impact on participants.

Forecasts and outlooks – Short, medium and long-term forecasts and outlooks for supply and demand, trade, costs and prices.

Project feasibility – Pre-feasibility and market feasibility studies to evaluate and analyse project potential.

Valuation models – Including new projects, mergers and acquisitions and assessments of existing assets. All outcomes are tested using high-level sensitivity and scenario analysis.

Presentations – Argus' consultants and analysts deliver presentations and run client seminars on relevant topics.

About Argus

Argus is the leading independent energy and commodity price reporting and news analysis agency. Argus uses a precise and transparent methodology to assess spot and forward prices in the oil, petroleum products, LPG, petrochemical, bioenergy, electricity, natural gas, coal, emissions, transportation, metal and fertilizer markets. Argus prices are used by market participants as indexes in physical contracts and as benchmarks for derivatives trading, settlement and clearing.

Argus Consulting Services provides clients with tailored research, data, benchmarking, modelling, strategic analysis and decision-making support. The focus is firmly on markets – their structure, outlook, logistics and economics, where Argus' understanding, knowledge and insight provide clients with a clear competitive advantage.
